“No one puts new wine into old wineskins. For the wine would burst the wineskins, and the wine and the skins would both be lost. New wine calls for new wineskins.”

COVID-19 Arrangements

We recognize that your presence at our Re•Gen gathering means you are excited about worshipping and learning together! Your presence at Re•Gen also constitutes your acknowledgment and acceptance of any risks associated with public, in-person gatherings during the COVID-19 pandemic.

In the ongoing spirit of our Re•Gen gatherings, we ask that grace and charity be demonstrated regarding differing opinions and comfort levels with COVID-19 approaches. In light of significantly reduced county, state and federal restrictions for higher education institutions, we offer these points.

- Masks will not be required on the Taylor University campus. Please respect those who still feel most comfortable continuing to wear masks and observe physical distancing.
- For those who feel more comfortable listening to the worship outside the auditorium during singing or any other point in the service, screens will be available in the lobby of the LaRita Boren Campus Center to watch the service live.
- All volunteers working with Evana Kids have been asked to wear masks while leading the children's activities.
- Food will be served buffet style, but with Taylor University staff plating the food.
- If you become sick before leaving to attend Re•Gen, please stay at home to recover and help protect the health of others. If you become sick at Re•Gen, please also return home rather than remaining on campus. All registration, food and lodging costs for days missed due to sickness will be refunded by Evana Network.
